Chorus:

Circus in the park tonight,
Oh what a fantastic sight!
Animals parading,
What a rumpus, what a din!

1. The ringmaster, Colonel Bing,
Comes into the ring;
First he says to all hello,
Then he bows down very low,
Everybody claps their hands. 2 x

2. And we all shout and cheer
When the elephants appear.
Colonel Bing has trained the well.
See them hold each other's tail.
Everybody stamps their feet. 2 x

3. Now the fleas have their show,
Watch them jump, watch them go,
Watch them doing exercises,
Disappearing down my trousers.
Everybody scratches, too. 2 x

4. And the juggler if he wishes
Can juggle with twelve dishes.
If one falls upon his head,
He will fall down very dead.
Everybody wipes their eyes. 2 x

5. See the lions in a rage,
They go running round their cage.
Their poor trainer Mr Skinner
Thinks he's going to be their dinner.
Everybody licks their lips. 2 x

6. And the clown is looking glum,
'cause he's fallen on his bum.
He gets up, adjusts his nose
And down again he goes.
Everybody laughs like mad. 2 x
